To Whom It May Concern,

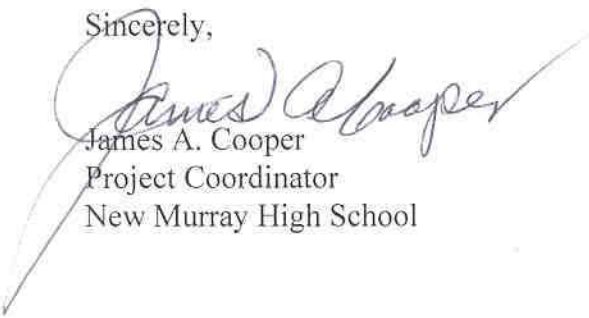

This letter is in reference to our experience with the new Murray High School construction project and specifically our association with Arco Electric, the electrical subcontractor for the job. This has been a twenty six million dollar project with various challenges since the new building was built immediately adjacent to the old Murray High.

We have had a close working relationship with Arco's onsite people as well as with Tyler Bills, their Project Manager with the company. Over the time of the project we have developed a very good working and trust relationship with everyone at Arco. Tyler has always been very prompt in responding to our requests or concerns with any issue that has come along. Together we've been able to analyze and solve construction issues in a very professional way.

In speaking of Arco we would also mention the quality of their work. We have been very pleased with the expertise and skill of their workers, quality of materials and their pride in doing a professional job. This, along with being able to communicate and work with Tyler as well as the onsite employees has made a sometimes difficult project much easier.

We would certainly recommend Arco Electric for your serious consideration for any future construction projects.

Sincerely,

James A. Cooper
